

The Freezing of Blackbeard by 30

Once, there were two superheroes. One was Supergirl. She had laser eyes and super strength. She was also able to freeze her opponents with her ice breath. The other superhero was Chocolate Spreader, who gave chocolate to everyone who needed it but could also use his chocolate powers to disable bad guys. He would just squirt a stream of chocolate sauce and then Supergirl would freeze them in the chocolate. They were a brilliant team.

One day, Supergirl and Chocolate Spreader were hanging out in their jungle tree house when the Superhero Watch they had received from the jungle chief started bleeping. "Chocolate Spreader!" Supergirl cried, "We are needed on the high seas. A ship is in trouble." "Off we go!" screeched Chocolate Spreader, as they took to the skies. When they arrived on the boat, they saw that the crew had been taken hostage by pirates. Supergirl knew who it was straight away. "This is Blackbeard's work." she said darkly. "You go and help the crew and I will go and find Blackbeard!" Supergirl went below deck but found no one. She moved forward cautiously.

Unfortunately, Blackbeard was hidden by the shadows and ready to pounce. As soon as Supergirl had walked past him, he jumped out behind her and scooped her up into a magic bag that was immune to her powers. Supergirl could not even cry for help. Blackbeard took the magic gemstone that he had stolen from the ship's captain and turned it over in the palm of his hand. Instantly, he turned into Supergirl! Blackbeard, disguised as Supergirl, went back on deck to face Chocolate Spreader. At first, Blackbeard pretended to be Supergirl. He helped untie the crew and even smiled. "Where's Blackbeard?" asked Chocolate Spreader? Supergirl just shrugged.

Luckily, Chocolate Spreader realised that it was not Supergirl. Supergirl was the chattiest girl he knew and all of a sudden she had nothing to say? Chocolate Spreader shot his sticky toffee chocolate jet at Supergirl and stuck her to the ship's mast. The magic gemstone fell to the floor and the enchantment broke: he was Blackbeard once more. Chocolate Spreader raced below deck and found Supergirl in the magic bag. He rescued her and she said gratefully: "Thanks! It's a good job we're such a good team, not everyone would have known it wasn't really me!"

Eventually, Supergirl and Chocolate Spreader returned the magic gemstone to the ship's captain. He had been on his way to hide it in a maze of caves on a deserted island. "This gemstone is too dangerous, it must be hidden forever." As for Blackbeard, Chocolate Spreader thought of the perfect punishment for him. He covered him in chocolate sauce and then Supergirl turned him into a slightly hairy ice sculpture. The two superheroes took the ice sculpture back to their tree house, where they can now be seen to hang their coats and scarves on the frozen Blackbeard. The end.